Alcohol Safety Action Program Roadside Survey Underway

Between May 8 and May 17 you may be directed off the road by a police officer and asked to participate in the Alcohol Safety Action Program (ASAP) roadside survey. If you agree you will be cooperating in an intensive effort to determine the extent of the drinking-driver problem in Central Virginia.

Shown above is the "van" which will be used for the ASAP roadside survey. It is on loan from Fairfax County.

The roadside survey is only part of the ASAP Study which began in February. Data collectors from the Central Virginia Planning District Commission have been gathering information from court and traffic records concerning drinking drivers to determine what problems exist in the six jurisdictions.

The surveys will be conducted between the hours of 7:00 p.m. and 3:00 a.m. at various locations in the Central Virginia Planning District. Exact locations will not be disclosed in advance to avoid influencing traffic patterns.

Commissioner E.W. Carson, representing Appomattox County, points out that the surveys are being conducted to obtain scientific data, not for law enforcement purposes.

A driver who is stopped and found to be too intoxicated to continue driving for his own safety or the safety of others will not be arrested is he allows the research team to provide other means for him to reach his destination." explained Carson.

Each interview will take approximately 10 minutes of the driver's time and will consist of questions regarding his driving patterns and drinking habits and taking a simple breath test to determine, for research purposes, his Blood Alcohol Content at that time.

All information gathered will be kept completely confidential and names and addresses of drivers will not appear on the completed questionaire.

Law enforcement personnel will assist in directing traffic and operating equiptment for the survey but will not be involved in the actual interviews.

After the data has been compiled from the roadside survey a decision will be made by the ASAP Advisory Committee as to the need for an ASAP Program in the Central Virginia Planning District.

Finds Rare Coins

Thomas C. Watson of Route 4, Appomattox is shown above with three rare coins he found recently near Hampden Sydney at an old Church along with 16 other old U. S.coins dated from 1959 to 1905.

One coin found with the use of a metal-detecter was a 1795 Spanish Real which at the time it was minted was worth 12½ cents. This coin was minted two years after the first mint was established in the United States and was used here in Colonial Days because coins of any type were hard to come by. He also found a 1859 Indian Head penny, glosed wreath, and a 1905 Barbarra dime.

Watson has been metal detecting for about three years and he really enjoys this hobby.

You wouldn't believe the crazy ideas people have about farming.

They expect you to increase production without fertilizer, fuel, chemicals or practically anything else.

They never stop to think about how much capital it takes to start and operate a farm. Or how much hard work.

And yet they get upset if you make a profit.

That's why I appreciate dealing with someone like Jim Nolen, who heads up the Agricultural Department at Fidelity National Bank. He's been here himself. Priming tobacco. Working the fields.

And as an agricultural specialist, he knows just how much it hurts me to have best prices down about $10 per cwt. Or to have fertilizer supplies low and prices high.

To some bankers, these things don't mean much. But I can talk to Jim and know that he understands. Because he's been through it all himself.

And I know that he can help me take care of my number one concern—increased profits. With financial advice. Credit packages. And all the budget and planning assistance I can use.

What's more, Fidelity's got people just like him in all their branches. People trained in both farming and finance.

When you think about that, it's not surprising to find out that Fidelity lends more money to farmers than any other Virginia bank.

And I guess that's why I handle all my banking there. After all, I only do business with people who really know what they're talking about. And who back that talk up with action.

That's just plain common sense.

Nationally all grain stocks except sorghum and soybeans were below a year earlier on April 1. Corn, oats, barley and sorghum, the so-called feed grains, were down 11 percent.

Wheat stocks were down 41 percent below a year earlier on April 1. This is the lowest April 1 wheat stock since 1952.

Soybean stocks were 47 percent higher than a year ago.

This may give some assistance in determining whether to grow corn or soybeans in 1974.

TWIN CALVES aren't novelties to cattle producers, but when twin calves arrive 24 hours apart it is note worthy.

This hereford cow calved a bull calf, shown nursing, on the morning of April 29. Tuesday morning, April 30, a heifer calf was born. The mother rejected the heifer calf and it was necessary to bottle feed the later calf until she could be sold.

Whenever a bull and heifer are born twins, the heifer is called a "free-martin". The changes of a free-martin conceiving and bearing a calf is a remote possibility. Therefore, free-martins should be disposed of as a veal rather than attempting to use as a breeding animal.

This occurred on the Russell Martin farm, Route 4, Appomattox.

J. A. Smith, Extension, suggested that long delays between calving usually occur because of difficulty in calving, however, in this case the cow appeared to calve normally without problems.

Animals such as sows that produce multiple births will frequently farrow over a period of several hours, but with cattle this is most unusual.

JIMMY BRAFORD BEGAN custom harvesting grain in 1973 with a self-propelled combine.

This year he is adding drying and storage facilities. In the background two concrete bases have been poured where drying bins will be located. In the foreground preparation is being made to erect a storage bin. Total grain storage on this farm with the new structure will exceede 10,000 bushels.

Richard Nash and John Wilson are also erecting grain storage facilities. There's a great need for additional on farm drying and storage in Appomattox County, J. A. Smith, Extension Agent, noted.
